PROJECTS

- Heart Disease Prediction using Machine Learning
Developed a heart disease prediction system using clinical patient data and heart health features, implementing Decision Tree, Random Forest, and SVM models with performance evaluation metrics, along with a user-friendly web application for predicting heart disease outcomes.
- ECG Signal Analysis and Interpretation using deep learning
Developed an ECG prediction system using image preprocessing and CNN models for accurate ECG analysis and prediction, implemented using Python, TensorFlow/Keras, OpenCV, and Flask for web-based prediction.
- ERP Project - School management system
During my internship at Skylx Technologies Pvt. Ltd., I completed training in Java Full Stack Development and worked on an ERP-based School Management System project. The project included modules such as student management, staff administration, leave management, attendance tracking, and financial operations. A modern and user-friendly interface was developed using Next.js, while backend services were built with Java Spring Boot framework. Git, Postman, and Docker were used for version control, API testing, and deployment.
